

MONMOUTH COLLEGE

WOMEN'S SOCCER RECORD BOOK

TEAM HISTORY

After being recognized as a club sport for three years, women's soccer at Monmouth College was granted full intercollegiate status in the fall of 1994. Monmouth immediately began league competition as a member of the South Division in the newly-merged Midwest Conference (MWC), which had sponsored women's soccer conference championships under the rules of the Midwest Athletic Conference for Women (MACW) since 1986. The conference used divisional competition to determine postseason tournament representatives until 1997, when the present non-divisional round-robin schedule format was adopted.
