

MONMOUTH COLLEGE

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL RECORD BOOK

TEAM HISTORY

Monmouth began intercollegiate competition in women's softball in the spring of 1975. The first Midwest Athletic Conference for Women (MACW) softball tournament was played in 1979 and Monmouth won the first conference softball championship crown with a perfect 4-0 record. The league adopted the current North-South divisional system in 1984 and since then has used a postseason tournament to determine the conference team champion. Monmouth has always competed as a member of the South Division and won both divisional and conference titles in 1987. The MCAC (men) and MACW (women) conferences merged to form the Midwest Conference (MWC) in 1994. Several fields have been used for the Monmouth home games over the years.

MIDWEST CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT RESULTS

The Midwest Conference recognized a conference champion by virtue of in-season round-robin competition from 1979 to 1983. The present postseason tournament format began in 1984. Monmouth results in the tournament are shown by overall game record and finish. Individual game results are listed with each opponent as either win or loss with Monmouth runs scored shown first. Series records are only for MACW/MWC tournament games.
